What is a COAF Scholar?
Established under the State Bar of California’s Council on Access and Fairness (COAF), the 2+2+3 Community College Pathway to Law School initiative is a partnership among 26 of the state’s community colleges and eight law schools along with their respective undergraduate institutions.

The 2+2+3 Law School Pathway project is designed to enhance opportunities in the legal profession for diverse populations. While diverse communities comprise 60 percent of the California population, 80 percent of the state’s lawyers are Caucasian.

The Pathway requires students to complete all requirements in the Intersegmental General Education Transfer Curriculum (IGETC).

All students should meet with a counselor to develop an Individual Educational Plan since many different degrees support entry into law school.

The mission of the 2+2+3 program is to create a pathway from community college through undergraduate education and on to completion of a juris doctorate degree necessary for a successful career in law.

The program accomplishes this goal by providing:
- LSAT and Law School Preparation
- Exposure to the Law Profession and Internships
- Mentoring Programs
- Undergraduate Partnerships
- Events and Networking
