Program Overview

Got Your Six is a vet-to-vet mentoring program. In the military, “Got your six” means “I’ve got your back.” The saying originated with World War I fighter pilots referencing a pilot’s backside as being the six o’clock position. It is now a ubiquitous term in the military that highlights the loyalty and cooperation found in military culture. At Sacramento City College we want to carry on this commitment of helping veterans by providing a support system that allows veteran students to move forward in accomplishing their personal and academic goals.

A Vet-to-Vet mentoring program is key to helping new veteran students overcome challenges, such as meeting academic expectations, establishing a balance between academic and personal responsibilities, relating to nonveteran students, and coping with service-related injuries.

Our Program Goals

- Provide a vet-to-vet support system to ease the transition from service to school
- Strengthen student veteran networks on campus
- Improve veteran students’ academic success and retention
- Link new veteran students to various campus resources
- Increase new veteran students’ completion of Steps to Success

“Navigating through college can be tricky and transitioning from military to civilian life makes it even tougher. I was glad I was able to help guide and encourage other veterans through this process.”

– Chris, Got Your Six Mentor (Army National Guard)
What is a Mentor?

Mentor Requirements and Attributes

- Must be a current SCC student who has served or is serving in the US military (active duty, guard or reserve)
- Must have completed at least one semester at SCC

Mentor’s Role

- Mentors will help with the essential part of empowering new veteran students during their transition time
- Mentors will become an important part of helping new veteran students succeed at Sacramento City College by:
  - Helping their mentee adjust to being a college student
  - Assisting their mentee with time management skills
  - Educating their mentee about campus resources
  - Helping their mentee achieve academic success
  - Supporting the VRC in building a strong SCC veteran community
- Mentors will work closely with the program coordinator in identifying topics of discussion and/or campus resource suggestions for mentor/mentee weekly hours
  - Suggestions will be sent out to mentors on Fridays

“By helping my mentee get organized, I also became more organized; it was a rewarding experience for both of us.”

– Greg, Got Your Six Mentor (Air Force)
Got Your Six Mentor Expectations

✯ Commit to a semester-long mentor/mentee match
✯ Develop a positive relationship with your assigned mentee
✯ Meet with assigned mentee two hours per week, e.g., one-on-one meetings, accompanying mentee to student support workshops, veteran student council meetings, or VRC activities
✯ Provide weekly SITREPS (to include weekly hours with mentee and program feedback) to VRC coordinator each Friday
✯ Attend mentor training sessions and the mid-semester mentor update session
✯ If uncomfortable or have any concerns must be able to communicate them to program coordinator

Mentoring has distinct characteristics – the list below exemplifies what Got Your Six Mentors can expect from their role as a mentor.

Distinct Mentoring Components

✯ Mentorships are reciprocal relationships
✯ Mentors should demonstrate positive and helpful personalities
✯ Mentors can provide mentees with assistance in finding support services
✯ Mentors can provide mentees with social and emotional support
✯ Mentors should serve as role models
✯ Mentorships can offer a “safe harbor” for mentees to seek advice and help

Keys for Successful Mentoring

While there is no standard formula to be a successful mentor, there are steps you can take to improve your success:

Be Accessible – maintain a system for reaching out to your mentee (scheduled phone calls and/or emails), engage your mentee in conversation, share information about yourself – what advice can you give about transitioning into college – and always remain open to conversation with your mentee.

Be Selective – do not over-commit yourself, focus on smaller number of high-quality time with your mentee rather than longer one-on-one meetings.

Provide Encouragement and Support – this is very important when establishing the mentor/mentee relationship.

Teach and Train – you have experience in transitioning from military service into college – share your experiences, provide helpful tips.

Set Goals – set clear and challenging goals for how you will be providing your mentee with helpful information, how you will connect your mentee to student support services, and how you will accomplish your assigned responsibilities to the VRC.

Provide Information – help demystify the new system of education for the new veteran student:

- Institutional policies
- Norms, standards, values, ideology, resources at SCC
- Skills and competencies necessary for advancing toward their academic goal
- Common hurdles and stumbling blocks

Self-Disclose when Appropriate – be willing to share your success and failures if lessons are beneficial and applicable.

Allow Increasing Mutuality and Collegiality – the best mentor relationships become professional friendships.
Challenges our Mentors have encountered in the past:

✯ Learning how to set the tone for helping another person through college
✯ Figuring out which student services program would be most beneficial to the mentee
✯ Teaching the strategy of time management to the mentee
✯ Explaining what prerequisite courses mean

What our Mentors have learned in their role:

✯ Gained information about campus student services
✯ Time management skills
✯ How to help someone succeed
What is a Mentee?

✯ Must be willing to attend weekly activities with mentor and/or meet with mentor at agreed upon dates/times
✯ Must be willing to sign a mentor/mentee agreement

A mentor is NOT an academic advisor

A mentor is NOT a social buddy
Challenges our Mentees have encountered:

- Getting used to a new culture of academics
- Learning how to ask for assistance
- Figuring out how to handle school, work, and family life

What our Mentees have to say about the program:

- Having someone to talk to was extremely helpful
- The transition to college was smoother
- Learning about the campus Veteran Resource Center was valuable

Interested in being a mentee?

“My mentor’s knowledge and willingness to help me has been instrumental in my success during my first semester in college.”

— DJ, Got Your Six mentee (Coast Guard)

Matching the Pairs

If at all possible, the Got Your Six teams are selected based on either:

- A match in majors
- A match in career interests

In addition, women are usually matched with one another when possible in an effort to create a strong women’s veterans community within the larger VRC population.

The program coordinator will contact you with information on your match. This information will include the email address and phone number for the individual you have been paired with as well as the date scheduled for the Got Your Six Meet & Greet session. It is recommended, that if possible, mentors reach out to their mentees prior to the Meet & Greet to perhaps schedule their first in-person meeting or a phone call. Attending the Meet & Greet session is required for all matches. At this session each pair will complete their Agreement Forms.

It is suggested that each pair try to spend time getting to learn about one another’s academic goals, career interests, or work activities.

These sample questions can be posed to either a mentor or mentee:

- What are your expectations for being in the mentoring program?
- What would you like to gain from the program?
- What are your interests and hobbies?
- What type of career are you interested in?
